Battle of Point Pleasant (Virginia forces vs. Shawnee chief Cornstalk)

Andrew Lewis divided his men into two divisions. He appointed Colonel William Fleming to head one regiment and his brother, Colonel Charles Lewis, was chosen to head the second division.

October 10, 1774

The frontiersmen had superior weapons.

The Indians fought from behind rocks.

The battle lasted all day.

An estimated 200 Indians were killed.

The Virginians lost 50 men, including Colonel Charles Lewis. Another 100 were wounded.

Cornstalk retreated across the Ohio River and asked for peace.

Some believe the Battle of Point Pleasant was the first battle of the American Revolution.

4b.

Lewis later learned that the Treaty of Camp Charlotte had been signed by Lord Dunmore, the Shawnee, the Delaware, and the Mingo.

By the terms of the temporary Treaty of Camp Charlotte, the Indians agreed to return all prisoners and horses.

give up their rights to hunt south of the Ohio River.

The terms of the Treaty of Camp Charlotte became permanent in the Treaty of Pittsburgh.

Fort Gower Address

Tensions between the colonists and the British government grew as many people again questioned Dunmore's real motives for fighting the Indians. Since the Indians were not soundly defeated, they refused to accept this as his real motive.

Soldiers met at Fort Gower and issued a statement known as the Fort Gower Address.

In the statement, the soldiers pledged their allegiance to King George III and Lord Dunmore, but they also expressed a feeling of independence when they pledged that from this time on their love of America and Virginia would be of utmost importance.
